Aston Martin DB2 Vantage 1953 LHD Chassis : LML/50/326 Engine : VB6B/50/1159 Of the very few Aston Martin DB2 Vantage that left the factory in LHD, this one is extra appealing to us, as it was originally delivered to a Belgian customer! The list of previous owners is very short for a sixty-five year old car, and from the Aston Martin factory build sheet we also found out that this DB2 still has its original Vantage-specification engine (and it still sings beautifully!) But it is not only the engine that is original: the car still partially has its original paint, and the original leather seats are also deliciously patinated. One would expect the underside of the car to show decades of use, but no: it looks brand new! When a car has an expertly restored underside, and a partly untouched coachwork and upholstery, you have two options: either you drive it as it is, or you do a very limited conservative restoration, bringing it back to its former glory with as little impact as possible on the authentic state of the car. Our classic car friends and customers can testify: we have Aston Martins in our workshop all year round, and we have restored at least two dozens. Over the years we have established a long-term professional relationship with the Aston Martin colleagues and specialists in the UK. They help us to obtain spare parts and they give us expert advice when necessary. If you would like to join us and our specialist team in this conservative restoration, you are more than welcome to embark on this fascinating journey. If you cannot wait to drive this car "as is", this ivory beauty is waiting for you in our showroom.
