Ferrari Dino 246 GT

1971

Gallery

In the long row of mythical Ferraris (166 MM, 250 SWB, GTO, Daytona, etc...) it is crystal clear that the Dino 246 has deserved its place thanks to the sportscars' remarkable concept and timeless Pininfarina design. The more in the actual crazy upward raise of V12 engined Ferrari values, the Dino still offers an affordable alternative. This particular LHD Dino is in a splendid original condition. Sold new to South Africa all be it in a continental European configuration, this Dino has aged remarkably well. In super sound condition and with the striking colour combination from original of fly-yellow with black leather interior, this 246 GT has covered over all these years only 80.000 km. The cars' neat presentation does justice to the timeless beautiful Pininfarina design which is enhanced by the plexy head lamp covers. Firing the 4 cam V6 cylinder up, reveals instantly a smooth symphony of Ferrari power. Once on the road, the driver will experience strong "go-cart" sensations in this well-balanced sportscar which still behaves as when this Dino was new
